

Cezanne and America: Dealers, Collectors, Artists, and Critics, 1891-1921 (The A. W. Mellon Lectures in the Fine Arts)

John Rewald, the internationally acclaimed Cezanne scholar, presents here for the first time a full account of how the artists reputation and influence became established in America between 1891 and 1921, and of how some of the worlds largest collections of Cezannes works were formed in the United States. Recounted in Rewalds characteristically urbane and masterly style, this is the fascinating story of enthusiastic young American artists who took up Cezannes cause after they discovered him in Paris. It is also the story of the discerning early American collectors of his work--Leo and Gertrude Stein, the Havemeyers and John Quinn, among others--many of whom made their first purchases from Cezannes wily dealer Vollard or from the dealer Alfred Stieglitz in America, and of the beginning of the famous collection of Dr. Albert C. Barnes.

Rewald discusses the exhibitions at which Cezannes works were first shown and describes the outraged reactions of all but a few of the American critics. Several chapters are devoted to the important Armory Show of 1913. Throughout the text runs a compelling narrative in which all the actors revolve around the absent protagonist Cezanne. Each chapter is copiously illustrated, not only with Cezannes works but also with portraits of collectors and critics and with previously unpublished pages from diaries, dealers ledgers, and Cezannes own correspondence.
